

To Whom it may concern

“Lake Macquarie Communications consistently went ‘above and beyond the call’ to make sure our remote communications needs were met. From the onset Doug treated the project like it was number one priority and we were the only client. In fact, it’s like having our own ‘in house’ communications department without any of the hassles that go along with it.”

Doug understood the importance of what we needed to maintain remote communications for our projects. Taking care of the project needs, top quality communications results, and great customer service — everything we’re looking for in a full service communications provider. They work hard to make sure they’re always competitive, provide accurate and honest advice and ‘on time’ is something we can depend on — everytime!”
